H&S

Do you have overall operational and strategic accountability for an organisation?

If so, are you confident you understand your legal responsibilities when it comes to protecting your employees and others? Our IOSH Safety for Executives & Directors 1 day course is an excellent demonstration of your commitments to employee wellbeing and will help you minimise risk, ensure compliance and make better use of time and resources.

Learning outcomes

Delegates will emerge with an understanding of:

- The legal, moral and financial role of operational directors, owners of small businesses and senior executives, including their responsibilities, liabilities and accountabilities, both personal and organisational;
- The importance of safety and health at top-management level and how integrating those objectives into other business management objectives can help to minimise risk, reduce losses and make better use of time and resources;
- How to plan the direction for safety and health through developing and implementing a safety and health policy, and integrating it into business systems - explain the value of an adequately resourced and efficient safety and health management system, the value and benefits of training at all levels, and when to access competent advice;
- The benefits of good safety and health management systems, the consequences of failing to manage effectively, and how to ensure internal controls are working;
- The importance of reviewing and continually improving management systems, especially following change or failure;
- The positive impact and improvement that an organisation's leaders can have on its performance through their attitude and support for improving its safety culture; and
- The importance of setting key performance indicators and targets, together with performance monitoring and review for continual improvement in safety and health management.

Course content

The course is broken down into 5 modules:

- The moral, legal and financial case;
- Plan;
- Do;
- Check; and
- Act.

Business benefits

The course gives an understanding of the moral, legal and business case for proactive safety, health and risk management, and of strategic safety and health management and its integration into holistic business management systems and procedures.

Assessment and certification

Every participant who has completed the course should take the end-of course assessment. This consists of a personal commitment (action plan) relating to the learning on the course, in which the participant writes up to three actions that they commit to taking. Commitments should be appropriate for the level of responsibility the participant has in their organisation. The assessment must be the participant's own work but can be supported by trainer coaching.

Course tutors

The course will be delivered by a highly qualified, Chartered health and safety safety practitioners.

Venue and Duration

The course is delivered over four days and amounts to six hours' tuition per day. It can be delivered over four consecutive days or one day per week.

Who should attend?

The course is designed for managers and supervisors from any size company in any sector with responsibility for managing risk and resources. No previous qualifications or training is required.
